Letter From The President Nancy Grahlmann

Hi all of you creative artists:

For me, it started with Tour d' Artistes. The start date was approaching fast. I looked at my working studio and realized what a cluttered space it had become. Workspace was overflowing and there was not an open spot to place anything on. And that's when the spring bug bit me! I pulled out the dumpster, I sorted, I tossed, I made a big giveaway pile and now I have a workshop I can maneuver around. Clearing the cobwebs can open new pathways to creativity. Welcome Spring! What will you be doing to cultivate your inspiration for new works in process? If you haven't had a chance to experience the atmosphere in Fountain View Coffee on North Saguaro, please join fellow artists at 10:00 for about an hour on a Wednesday morning. The energy and chatter is always fun and inviting. Or maybe you would rather visit with a sketch pad and a quiet corner to observe the people and experience the atmosphere. Observe a person, imagine what their story might be or create one for them. Enjoy springtime in Arizona and the beauty that surrounds us while the birds sing and the sun dances, the roadrunners chase their lizards for dinner.

Keep your heart open and your creativity flowing,

Nancy

Art Demos & Talks

March Talk of the Month Speaker

Our April Talk of the Month Speaker

Join us at our April meeting for an interactive demonstration and presentation by Karen Loftus, a Scottsdale-based artist working in a variety of mediums. We all wish we could create art every single day, but what do you do when you can't carve out a couple of hours each day to create? Do you lose your mojo? In as little as 30 minutes a day, Karen's found a way to remain creative and engaged. She'll share with us techniques for remaining creative and active in the arts by creating a junk journal. Regardless of your preferred medium, we can all find a way to create! You'll walk away with a handful of ideas, and maybe even the gumption to commit to a 100-day challenge!
